About This Game

Wave is an indie game that has the goal of entertaining its players and at the same time offering them a challenging game. It has a style and a very marked visual range, which fits perfectly with the simplicity of the gameplay itself.

In this game simply handle a ball that is swinging from right to left permanently, and you will only control the way in which to ascend, it is perfect because besides you only need a mouse to play it.
The difficulty of the game comes now, there will be several objects along the route that will make you lose the game if the ball hits them. Objects of different types, such as:
-Mobile platforms
-Immobile objects
-Immobile objects that become large and small over time.

It is a very simple game, with a medium difficulty, perfect to have a good time playing in a relaxed way.

00.03.00 Introduction
Under raging storm clouds, a lone figure stands silhouetted against the ancient walls of Castle Ravenloft. The vampire Count Strahd von Zarovich stares down a sheer cliff at the village below. A cold, bitter wind spins dead leaves about him, billowing his cape in the darkness.
Lightning splits the clouds overhead, casting stark white light across him. Strahd turns to the sky, revealing the angular muscles of his face and hands. He has a look of power - and of madness. His once handsome face is contorted by a tragedy darker than the night itself.
Rumbling thunder pounds the castle spires. The wind's howling increases as Strahd turns his gaze back to the village. Far below, yet not beyond his ken, a party of adventurers has just entered his domain. Strahd's face forms a twisted smile as his dark plan unfolds. He knew they were coming, and he knows why they have come - all according to his plan. He, the master of Ravenloft, will attend to them.
Another lightning flash rips through the darkness, its thunder echoing through the castle's towers. But Strahd is gone. Only the howling of the wind - or perhaps a lone wolf - fills the midnight air. The master of Ravenloft is having guests for dinner. And you are invited.
